

Module 33: Use Templates

33.1 Use Templates

You can use predetermined templates to build your data rather than starting from a blank worksheet.

When you open Excel, the first screen that shows up will have a blank workbook first, followed by a series of templates.

Then, you will have a series of options by popularity, or you can search for a specific format in the search box at the top of the window. Common templates include: personal and business budget, cash flow, calendars, to-do list, travel expenses, loan comparison calculators, schedules, invoices, inventories and more.
